Coeur d'Alene lies along the northern shore of lovely Lake Coeur d'Alene. Carved by glacial waters, this valley has long been a destination for travelers of all kinds. The Schitsu'umsh Tribe made their home here, as did fur traders, prospectors and army troops. Visitors came by electric train to enjoy the views from steam-powered paddle wheel boats. Today, Coeur d'Alene proudly continues this tradition of hospitality.

The centerpiece is Lake Coeur d'Alene, 25 miles of pure, blue water lined with pine-studded hills. National Geographic once called it one of the five prettiest lakes in the world.

Downtown Coeur d'Alene is a charming place near the waterfront with restored brick buildings, lampposts, trees and over 100 shops within a six-block area.
